Florida Genetics 2012 - Call for poster abstracts and registration

The UF Genetics Institute invites all faculty, graduate students and research associates to submit abstracts of their latest genetics research for poster sessions at the Florida Genetics 2012 Symposium, scheduled for Wednesday- Thursday, November 28-29th, 2012 at the UF Cancer & Genetics Research Complex.

Complimentary on-line registration and abstract submission are now available at the UFGI website at <http://www.ufgi.ufl.edu/seminars-events/florida-genetics-2012/welcome-to-florida-genetics-2012/>. Participants are urged to enter their abstract as soon as possible. The deadline to submit abstracts is October 1, 2012. The presenting author is automatically registered for the conference when they submit their abstract; however, all other authors on the poster must register individually if they wish to attend. The deadline to register to attend the conference is November 13, 2012.

Six internationally acclaimed genetics researchers have accepted invitations to present findings at the symposium, including keynote speaker, David Baltimore, President Emeritus, Robert Andrews Millikan Professor of Biology, Nobel Laureate, California Institute of Technology; Jude Samulski director, Gene Therapy Center, Professor of Pharmacology, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; Michael Skinner, Professor, School of Biological Sciences, Washington State University; Steven Strauss, Distinguished Professor of Forest Biotechnology, Department of Forest Ecosystems and Society, College of Forestry, Oregon State University; Karen McGinnis, Assistant Professor, Department of Biological Sciences, Florida State University; Terry Flotte, Dean, Provost and Executive Deputy Chancellor School of Medicine, University of Massachusetts.

Posters will be displayed in the Cancer & Genetics Research Complex from 3:00 p.m.- 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 28 and 11:45 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 29.

For the second year, the CODIFIED Art + Genetics show and competition will be held in conjunction with the conference; this year the event will be from 3:00 p.m.- 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, November 28th.

myIDP: So You Think You Have Skills

Article in Science Careers from the journal Science.

This is the second article in a series designed to help you create an Individual

Development Plan (IDP) using myIDP, a new Web-based career-planning tool created to help graduate students and postdocs in the sciences define and pursue their career goals. To learn more about myIDP and begin the career-planning process, please visit <http://myidp.sciencecareers.org>.

Making the Leap: A Non-Academic Career Planning & Job Search Boot Camp

November 30 - December 1, 2012

The New York Academy of Sciences

Join us for Science Alliance's highly anticipated 2-day career boot camp! Making the Leap is designed to help demystify the nonacademic job search process and teach young scientists how to explore different career paths, determine which ones are a good fit, and successfully prepare and apply for potential jobs. This event is targeted to students and postdocs in the sciences planning to enter the job market within the next year; other scientific career changers are also welcome to attend.
